Mr Ambika Nand singing Bhajan, with Joseph Abhay Nand on tabla

Mr Ambika Nand addresses APSQ Satsangh

Mr Ambika Nand presented a paper on "Importance of preserving our Hindi language and Indian culture" during the 24th February Samaj Satsangh at Finnish Hall, Mt Gravatt East. Looking at the importance of preserving our Hindi language and Indian culture it was thought to devote our Satsangh totally to this significant theme. It must be noted that Australian Government multicultural policy also allows those who choose to call Australia home the right to practice and share in their cultural traditions and languages. Mr Nand who himself had been actively engaged in promoting a better understanding of Indian culture by being a Hindi teacher and scholar. He was a well known Radio announcer in Fiji. He was pleased to see that Arya Pratinidhi Sabha of Qld is trying its best in maintaining the Indian culture and identity by conducting cultural activities, promoting the code of VEDIC philosophy, Hindi, Yoga, music and involving the youth in all the activities. The programme started with Yajna, and some Vedic Bhajans were sung by the Youth group members. After the Yajna, Mr Nand sang few Bhajans and his son Mr Joseph Abhay Nand played Tabla. Mr Aman Chand presented Kavita (poem) during the programme and he thanked Mr Nand for editing it.

The President Mr. Jitendra Deo, welcomed the invited guests and Mr Nand. He briefed the people present on the humble beginnings of the Arya Samaj in Brisbane, and its main goal "To maintain the Bharitya Sanskriti and language. The activities that relate to the Bharitya Sanskriti is performed so it is active and ultimately passed on to the future generation".

Mr Nand was introduced to the gathering by Ms Nalini. Mr Nand delivered a very articulate speech in Hindi on "Importance of preserving our Hindi language and Indian culture". Hindi language our mother tongue is the medium through which one sustained one's Indian culture. Language and culture cannot be separated as language is the carrier of culture. Hindi language and Indian culture are true reflections of our identity. Mr Nand emphasized that our culture is very important and we should take pride in it and the young people of today should be encouraged to embrace their language and culture.

The MC was Sabha Secretary Mr Hari Chand, and Sabha Vice President Mr Rajesh Chand moved vote of thanks. The programme finished with lunch and misthaan provided by Mr Rajesh & Mrs Sakuntala Chand Family.

Vedas and its knowledge

For any one person to study and understand Vedas will appear to be physically an impossible mission. Starting from the ancient Rishis themselves to MaxMuller in modern times this fact is well acknowledged.

Vedas offer a vast scholastic area of enquiry and call for good expertise and general awareness in social , political , physical sciences and technology. Interest and knowledge in at least one specific scientific/technological discipline is necessary, for any individual to attempt the study, to explore scientific and technological knowledge from Vedas. Response from educated scientific community due to lack of interest in our heritage for exploration of Vedas is practically nonexistent. It needs a conviction & dedication in Vedas with self motivation. Experts in the management field, Social, and environmental sustainability areas have been more active in discovering relevance of Vedic Wisdom to modern times. The Vedas give the most modern up-to-date knowledge of sciences with linkages to agriculture, nutrition and ecology. Vedic guidance has also been the base on which we are making use of modern veterinary science with spectacular success.

Vedas give very specific guidance for the modern Commercial Market driven society how the interests of an ordinary individual by can be protected by Consumer education, Environmental Protection, Nutrition and Health for every body and Crimes against society could be dealt with in a Democratic modern state. Some examples on which insight from Vedas can be attempted is given here.

The idea is only to invoke the interest of the modern young scholars to develop interest in study of Vedas. Vedas are not to be considered as mere religious books of Hindus, but a book of knowledge for entire human society.

On administrative hierarchical planning, Consumer education and protection, significance of transparency and right to information, Conflict resolution by democratic negotiations, importance of articulation and good speaking ability, positive and constructive approaches, specific insights are available.

Similarly on human nutrition system, cholesterol and heart circulation system, probiotic and microbiology, linkage of nutrition to health and intellect, sustainable organic agriculture, entomology, Vitamin/hormone D, photosynthesis, disease prevention, poverty alleviation and veterinary science of cow's animal husbandry, unambiguous guidance is found.

On social topics like family planning, pregnant mother and girl child care, marital bliss, abortions and sex crimes, self motivation and positive contribution to society by inclusive minds, character building in society, are the kind of subjects that Vedas talk about.
