Editorial:

This month the Arya Mahasammelan was held in Sydney. As a youth member it was fascinating to learn about the Vedas and its principles and their meanings from a range of different Gurus. It was good to see the youth members of Arya Pratinidhi Sabha of Australia and Victoria Arya Samaj and to also perform alongside with them was a pleasure. The school holidays have arrived and the year is also near its end; so I wish everyone Happy Holidays and a Happy New Year.

Diwali Celebration and International Arya Mahasammelan 2015.

Arya Pratinidhi Sabha of Queensland members celebrated Diwali on November 6 at Queensland Vedic Cultural Centre.

The event was very well attended. Programme started with Vishesh Yaj, and Bhajans and Parvachans formed the part of the programme. Sabha Patron Pt Justice Devendra Pathik spoke on Diwali and Dayanand Nirvan Divas. Dinner and sweets were served at the conclusion of the Programme. Shri Sukarm Pal Singh and Dr Sukhvir Singh family provided dinner, and refreshments. Members also brought along variety of Diwali sweets to mark this occasion.

International Arya Mahasammelan was held in Sydney from November 27 till November 29 2015. The Arya Mahasammelan was hosted by Arya Pratinidhi Sabha of Australia. Arya Pratinidhi Sabha of Qld had 27 delegates attending this International Mahasammelan. There were delegates from around the world, and gathering was huge. The hosts did a great job of providing venue, morning tea, lunch and dinner. The speakers and Acharya's were from India, New York and Fiji.

The programmes were based on youths, Agnihotra, Science in Vedas, Health and Vedas to name a few. Youths performed Drama, sang Bhajans and spoke on various subjects. It was very encouraging to see the turnout all three days.

The next International Arya Mahasammelan will be held in Nepal.

Arya Pratinidhi Sabha of Qld wishes all readers a happy and safe festive season. Stay safe and enjoy your time with family and friends.

Four Varnas

Vedas prescribe that all human beings should leave ignorance, get educated, select a profession for himself based on his "tatva" (basic traits) and education, take a vow to follow such a profession, and follow such a profession.

Vedas classifies all profession into three viz. "Knowledge based", "Justice and state administration based" and "finance and economics based". Though all professions include some or other aspect of knowledge, administration and economics but the key element in each profession can be acknowledged to anyone of the given three.

A follower of a "Knowledge based" profession is called a "Brahmin";

A follower of a "Justice and state administration based" profession is called a "Kshatriya"; and a follower of an "finance and economics based" profession is called a "Vaishya".

Anyone who is not following any profession is called a "Shudra".

However, the above are not strict rules but the core rules of classification. There can be many exceptions in the Varnas of people.

A Shudra after he acquires requisite knowledge and experience and devotes himself to any profession acquires the status of a Brahman, Kshatriya or a Vaishya, as the case may be. No Shastra prohibits any person from gaining education or bhakti.

One may at the beginning of the career be working as a manager in a commercial company. He is a Vaishya then. After years of experience he started teaching principles of management in colleges, then he becomes a Brahmin.

A Brahmin's son or daughter would normally have more tendencies to indulge in knowledge based profession and hence become a Brahmin but he or she can choose another profession.

All humans by birth are Shudra. At different stages of life, they complete their basic education, their basic traits identified and depending on which profession they take for themselves.

At such a time, that person is called to taken a re-birth. That is why, Brahmins, Kshatriyas, and Vysyas are called DWIJ (twice born).

The Varna of a person is also often called, the Dharma of that person.
